PHILIPPINE DAILY INQUIRER BALANCED NEWS, FEARLESS VIEWS

IT STARTED WITH YELLOW RIBBONS. Now it's gone way beyond tying yellow ribbons round the old oak tree. Today, an entire cathedral is up in yellow. Its arches and columns gleam with the resplendent glow of yellow to reflect the light that is Cory C. Aquino in the life of the nation. The cathedral's yellow is tied up to the meaning of Cory in Philippine history and in the world. Cory yellow has become the true color of democracy.

Last wish: Trip to Holy Land with her family

By Dena Paz-Bugao

SHE'S IN THE HOLY LAND NOW. She wanted to go on a trip to Jerusalem.

Former President Corason Aquino's unfulfilled wish was to go on a pilgrimage to the Holy Land with her family, according to Corason Bishop Luis Tapia.

But Aquino was already 81 with cancer, Tapia said, when she asked him to lead her and her family on the pilgrimage.

"This Cory, now you have reached the Holy Land. You are not only with [the late Sen.] Ninoy (Aquino), you are with the whole Filipino nation and the whole world is accompanying you in this most beautiful pilgrimage," Tapia said.

IF SHE GOES TO FORMER PRESIDENT Corason Aquino's wake at Manila Cathedral, there's no telling how the crowd will react.

An embassy of Malacanan has called to seek permission for President Macapagal-Arroyo to visit the wake and pay her last respects, a senior member of the Aquino clan told the Newsday yesterday.

The embassy confirmed that his Arroyo was beginning to have second thoughts about going to the wake.

A RETIRED COMMODORE NOW feels remorse about his role in a series of coup attempts against President Corason C. Aquino in the late 1980s.

"We're sorry because we thought that military intervention will solve everything," said Rex Rickles, who as a young navy captain was among a group of officers who turned against Aquino after the 1986 EDSA People Power Revolution toppled the dictator Ferdinand Marcos.

Rickles said that he and other rebel leaders had thought that mounting coups against the Aquino administration from 1987 to 1989

THE LATE FORMER PRESIDENT Corason Aquino should be recognized as a national hero to ensure "the continuity of her legacy of democracy and love of country" according to two lawmakers.

Senators also filed 12 resolutions honoring Aquino and expressing "deepest condolences" to her family. A resolution, approved by both legislative chambers on Monday, bestowed the "highest congressional honor" on the late President.

In filing House Joint Resolution No. 43, Committee Senate Rep. Unwayway Venancio Chato called on Congress to

Imee, Bongbong Marcos pay respects, condole with Aquinos

By Kristine L. Alave

THE ONCE UNTHINKABLE happened yesterday.

Two of the children of the late dictator Ferdinand Marcos yesterday came to condole with Corason Aquino's family, clanked with two of her grandsons and shook hands with one of her daughters.

Imee Marie Rep. Ferdinand "Bongbong" Marcos Jr., his wife Liza Araneta, and his elder sister Lorna Marcos arrived at Manila Cathedral at around 2:30 p.m. to pay their respects to the heroine of the 1986 EDSA People Power Revolution that toppled their father from power. Both women were dressed in black.

The Marcoses viewed Aquino's remains briefly before taking seats at the front pews, just in front of some members of the extended Aquino clan.

Aquino's grandsons, Joseph and Rhea Der, related with the Marcoses during their 20-minute stay. A few minutes later, Marie Imee "Telly" Aquino-Cruz came over to

Pacquiao standout in pack of VIPs

Former House Vice Gov. Luis "Chino" Binzagan, an ally of President Benigno Aquino, and Sen. Benigno "Ningning" Aquino III was then being thanked by the people from all walks of life who had come to pay their last respects to his mother, but Pacquiao managed to find the senator and carry his condolences in short sentences.

Guests died, and then the heavy mourning quickly disappeared.

For a moment, Pacquiao's lightning visit at the wake stirred the presence of overtones: past and present government and other local officials, singers, veterans and sports-loving actors, among others, who spent time at the wake to salute the athlete.

Gradually, the flow of visitors subsided for about two hours.

Volunteers handed their bottles of mineral water as they slowly walked past the casket, which was set up around the cathedral. Coffee, juice and food were in abundance.

Politics and show biz

Some of the big names were at the wake on Monday night and early yesterday were former first lady Imelda Marcos, Sen. Juan Miguel Zubarte and wife Audrey, Sen. Benigno Aquino III, House Speaker Roberto S. Duterte, and Representatives Abraham "Babito" Milla, Tito Gutierrez, the House Minority-Catholic, Albino Trinidad and Rodolfo Alano, and the former's brother Leopoldo. Sen. Jose Ma. P. Duran, Manila Mayor Eusebio D. Serrano and other local politicians, including former House Speaker Juan Pardo Lacson, were also present.

Also there were Corde Milla, the widow of Speaker's brother's wife, and world-bowling champion Punglo Punglo.

TV news and radio newscasters along with their crews were also present.

His generation's senior

Roberto Milla said he was growing up with his father, the late Senator Milla, and Aquino's husband. They were fighting Ferdinand Marcos during the 1970s.

"We were here under Marcos, but a sense of duty was the reason of our generation," Milla said.

He added, "Without him, we would have been long with Marcos... until his death, he was here, and we were here too. We have enjoyed our freedom... living with him, we were here, and we were here too."

Overlooking

"It's the great sacrifice, the did not want to run at all. [His father] no interest in politics and was just serving out his term as president when Marcos was coming to power. He was serving with respect and honor at their house on Tison Street in Quezon City," Duterte said. The "over-

SEN. BENOIGNO AQUINO III said "Concert at the Park" and public affairs programs on President Benigno Aquino III's first day at Manila Cathedral on Monday.

It was not certain if the Aquino family's rejection of state-funded funeral programs will be followed by the same coverage of the funeral procession which had taken five hours.

The Aquino family tried to get in touch with SEN-4 chair Rodolfo Duterte and vice president for news operations Rudy Duterte but neither responded to messages and requests for interviews.

Even yesterday's sociological films for Aquino at Manila Cathedral was not spared from government "removal."

was no coverage especially of the funeral coverage. It came out there was some sort of misunderstanding. [With the Aquino family], it looks like it's been resolved. [With the coverage of the sociological programs], according to the office, who spoke on condition of anonymity because he was not authorized to discuss details with the media.

Nevertheless, some employees of the state TV network were upset with what seemed to be a limited coverage of the events related to the death of Aquino, who at one time called for the resignation of Ferdinand Marcos and was later in prison without charges for the previous administration.

"From a journalist's point of view, Monday was an important event. It should have been covered, considering the vast resources of the station," an employee, who has not authorized to speak publicly and requested anonymity said the network.

Tuning it down

The employee said there was talk that the "highest" level of the network, Duterte, ordered the coverage. The employee, however, was ordered to refer interviews and take out statements that were not for the benefit of the government, like when people compared the Cory Aquino administration to the Marcos administration.

The employee pointed out that a man under the Aquino administration that SEN-4, then called People's Television Network (PTV-4), was strengthened with the purchase of new equipment, like the Fox network, Duterte said.

Cory hailed as sugar industry savior

By Carlo P. Gomez
Special to This Paper

BACOLOD CITY—WHEN SHE WAS PRESIDENT, the late Corason Aquino saved Negros Occidental's sugar industry from disaster, a former official of Negros Occidental said.

"I thank people who are not aware of Cory's legacy to Negros Occidental to know that the struggle is not of a democratic nature," said Daniel Lacion Jr., former Negros Occidental governor when Mr. Aquino appeared at the inauguration of the president in 1986.

Mr. Aquino, Lacion said, dismantled the monopoly that the late dictator Ferdinand Marcos created through the National Sugar Trading Corp. (Danasac) and the Philippine Sugar Commission.

When Mr. Aquino became president, she abolished the monopoly and opened the way to industry in free trade, allowing market forces to come into play, he added.

Debt, no funds

Lacion said at the time, Negros could not raise sugar industry funds to pay its creditors.

Mr. Aquino also empowered the province when she closed it strong for five years for de-capitalization, giving regulatory administration (DAR) local funds to pay its creditors.

Mr. Aquino also empowered the province when she closed it strong for five years for de-capitalization, giving regulatory administration (DAR) local funds to pay its creditors.

Consequently and at that time, Lacion was DRC governor and Mr. Aquino gave the province a grant of P120 million.

Lacion said the amount was equivalent to almost two years of the provincial government's budget at that time.

"She [President Aquino] said, 'Wag, Tan, giving this money which has been lent given to me by a centralized national government...'

"...she brought us out of a disastrous situation'."

That was one of her major legacies to local governments, he added.

Market awash in cash sought rates too costly for gov't

By Ramesh W. Desai

THE BUREAU OF THE TREASURY rejected bids for five-year treasury bonds as investors asked for higher rates despite a very liquid market.

Yesterday's bond issue was about two-and-a-half times oversubscribed as buyers indicated a total of P22.84 billion against the Bureau of the Treasury's offer of P9.3 billion.

The played-off bond was meant to be a series of papers issued some six months ago and would mature on Jan. 27, 2014.

Had the BTR accepted its earlier offer, the yield would have gone up to an average of 6.15 percent, or 0.7 basis point higher than the 5.45 percent yield placed in the issue memo for five-year bonds held last month.

"Investors continue to demand that the government to keep up its creditworthiness by keeping its debt already," said Treasurer Professor S. Tan, who declined the committee.

From wives and moms to Cory's Crusaders

We had young children who depended on us and whom we did not want to leave behind as orphans. Yet we had to defend our freedom as a legacy for our children and grandchildren

By Marcelino Z. Lim
Continued

ON THE FIRST NIGHT THAT Ninoy Aquino's body was brought to Times St. in 1983, my friend Ching Escaler and I lined up, along with the crowd, to pay our last respects to the martyr. We were deeply moved by his martyrdom and wanted to show our outrage by standing up and being counted among the many who felt the same way we did. We attended his funeral Mass, watched part of the way and returned home, unable to continue because of the massive crowd. We were not afraid of being identified by Marcos' intelligence apparatus. By killing Ninoy, the Marcos regime gave us courage to come out in the open and denounce its evils.

After Ninoy was laid to rest, Ching and I lined up with other women who were just as concerned about the political situation as we were. We started a discussion group and talked about the future of our country which, at that time, was on the brink of economic collapse.

On Sept. 15, 1983, people in Makati took to the streets in what was the first demonstration ever of the middle class against the dictator. I remember marching up Ayala Ave. from Barredo, carrying a placard which read, "We want Justice for Ninoy Aquino!" "Woman's Movement," "Tag-Tag, Cojuangco, Ching and I marched side by side.

It was a sight to see—the middle class, awake at last from its slumber in demand justice for Ninoy and condemn the Marcos regime short on corruption and abuse. Cardetti aimed down at us from the buildings along Ayala Ave. This demonstration was a spontaneous conclusion of people whose collective anger and frustration found expression in the form of a long series of street protests to demand Marcos' resignation.

Here's another make-believe biz romance

By Entertainment staff

PUNISH, INAP STING CLAIMS SEXY matters with further leading Men (they have the same mis-spec incidentally). On the Net, 28 barbers leading clues of a proposed romance with IM.

In a reversal, a judge said that CP and ZB were not in a love-affair on the set. But ZB isn't keen on publicizing this affair, because it does nothing for her career.

Left hanging
 Bushes courted many inquiries about the love team's on-off-again romance. The question: Why is Sweet Sixtynine quarreling with Monroe Mall?

The probable answer: While they were shooting a movie, NS made romantic overtures to SS, even asking her to marry him. To court her, once NS broke up with Lucinda Delfino, she and SS went to Vegas. NS hooked up with Mountiel Actress. NS was full laughing in said air.

Dad's back
 Award-winning actress Beatty reconciled with her father after years of estrangement. According to a former neighbor, LIF had to flee the country because he stole money from the coffers of an association he headed. Also, he was dodging a string of credit cards.

Dick wins
Spotted at the screening of an indie film was Character Actor named beside openly gay TV lifeline. CA and TE were a couple—and Perry Star made CA swoon. At a snail's pace, PE had a hilling eye with TE, one. In the end, TE revealed and not CA took.

Troubled soul
McKenzie's indie heart is a flesh prodigy. Like others in the same trade, EA is a wounded pup and has attempted suicide on more than one occasion. Sorry on his writer's last sentence, in his words, says a source. "I'm out. If I live, my story could put me to bed in an instant. Let's just let him rest in a bed, it was thrown into the sickle production at an early age."

Timely Size
As timely as today's headlines, the film "Chronicle of Wounded Lives" tracks the lives and travels of journalists and activists caught in political conflict and a culture of violence. Directing this facile project is French filmmaker, former manager of Raymond Bussiere.
